

My Titan tank is very important to me. I've had one over two years, and now that I'm replacing my truck, the first thing I'm doing is to put a Titan in my new truck.

I can't imagine anyone who travels distances or hauls anything on a long term basis to be without this tank. If you are towing, it gets old to stop every hour and a half. With the Titan tank I can pick and choose where and when I stop. Not only that, I save 40 to 60 cents a gallon when I go to my vacation home in Lake Arrowhead, CA. I buy fuel before I cross the border from AZ to CA, drive to Lake Arrowhead, spend the week and head back without having to buy a drop of fuel at the higher priced stations in California.

Not only is this tank a great convenience, but it ends up paying for itself over time. I consider my Titan tank a necessity.

It is the one upgrade that you should really consider.
